Commercial Agency Agreements: Law and Practice

The purpose of an agency agreement is to set out the terms and conditions of the relationship between the business which wants to sell stuff (the Principal) and the intermediary who agrees to sell it on their behalf (the Agent). When a sale is made by the Agent, the law deems that a contract is formed between the Principal and the end customer.

Factors such as the duration of the commercial agency contract prior to termination, whether there is a post-contractual restrictive covenant, the degree of investment required by the agent at the outset of the agency relationship, the question whether the agent is free to sell competing products, and the proportion of the agent’s turn-over contributed by the principal’s goods must be taken into account in determining the appropriate notice period.

Commercial Agency Contracts: Termination and Indemnity---

The law of agency is an area of commercial law dealing with a set of contractual, quasi-contractual and non-contractual fiduciary relationships that involve a person, called the agent, that is authorized to act on behalf of another to create legal relations with a third party. Succinctly, it may be referred to as the equal relationship between a principal and an agent whereby the principal, expressly or implicitly, authorizes the agent to work under their control and on their behalf. The agent i
