Julia Buckley needs a miracle. Like a third of the UK population, she has a chronic pain condition. According to her doctors, it can't be cured. She doesn't believe them. She does believe in miracles, though. It's just a question of tracking one down. Julia's search for a cure takes her on a global quest, exploring the boundaries between science, psychology and faith with practitioners on the fringes of conventional, traditional and alternative medicine. From neuroplastic brain rewiring in San Francisco to medical marijuana in Colorado, Haitian vodou rituals to Brazilian 'spiritual surgery', she's willing to try anything. Can miracles happen? And more importantly, what happens next if they do? Raising vital questions about the modern medical system, this is also a story about identity in a system historically skewed against 'hysterical' female patients, and the struggle to retain a sense of self under the medical gaze. Heal Me explains why modern medicine's current approach to chronic pain is failing patients. It explores the importance of faith, hope and cynicism, and examines our relationships with our doctors, our beliefs and ourselves.

Having endured an undiagnosed illness for thirty years, the author prayed daily for healing and diligently searched the Bible to answer the questions we all ask when faith does not seem to be enough. With a comprehensive and balanced application of scripture, the author addresses the topic of healing and answers the questions that test our faith.Is there some formula or prayer I need to pray to be healed?Is there a lesson I need to learn before I can be healed?Are only certain people qualified to pray for miracles and healing?Why is one person miraculously healed while someone just as deserving is not?The prayer of faith can heal the sick. I have faith, so why am I still sick?Is this God's predetermined will for me?Is it sin in my life that keeps me from being healed?Does God ever change his mind?Did I fail God, or did God fail me?With compassion and insight, this author offers hope, encouragement, and a way forward for those who want to know, "Why doesn't God just heal me?"Kathie Palazzolo is ordained with EPIC Ministries. Dante's Purgatory, Book One After the death of her Master, Caitlin Bennett discovers years of abuse and sadistic cruelty at his hands have made her a slave to pain. To reach her peak, Cait needs the type of extreme agony few responsible Doms are willing to dole out, especially Doms like Paul Nelson. Willing to offer the love she craves, Paul's nearly perfect-except for his aversion to the whip. Paul refuses to hurt Cait, instead attempting to recondition her through patience and trust. But the longer Cait suffers from lack of sexual release, the more she's convinced her mind and body are irrevocably programmed. And time to convince her otherwise is running out. Waiting in the wings is a newbie Dom who's determined to have Cait for his own...who's learning the whip just for her. Caitlin will soon have to choose-the man who can give her what she wants? Or the man who can give her what she needs?

This book is a detailed depiction of the "cuts" that people incur or will incur over the course of their lives, and how those "cuts" subsequently shape their lives. (Cuts are hurts, experiences, tragedies, and/or various pains incurred). Unfortunately, people will inevitably incur hurts and pains in life, which most are beyond their own control. One simply cannot control what happens to them at the hands of another. People hurt other people. It's not so much the hurt that causes the problem, but more so the effects of the hurt. Oftentimes, people ignore the hurt. They try to live their lives as if the hurt never occurred. Many are oblivious to their deep hurt because they've mastered the art of disguising the pain. The problem ensues when the severely wounded people interact with others, then they subsequently inflict others with the residual hurt that they've been harboring. Because of this, many fail to realize that they've been "cut" and are in need of healing. The purpose of this book is to aid in identifying and healing cuts from one's life (including their past, present, or possibly their future), as these cuts will affect one's life in some regard. Oftentimes, people need healing to recover from some trauma or tragedy that they've endured, yet they're too afraid to ask for help. Many internalize their feelings, never properly articulating their mental anguish, ultimately forsaking the need and opportunity to heal. It's the lack of healing that causes people to hurt others or live unhappy lives. This book was written to aid people with identifying their hurt, their need for healing, and ultimately helping them to heal and subsequently live their best lives.
