Hi Mr. McGivern, My wife and I saw you at Grafton High School. I was raised in Milwaukee and I am 50 years old. You are awesome! You brought me back to memories of my old parish, St. Roman’s, and my day’s of delivering the Milwaukee Journal. My wife and I are still laughing at the good old stories. Thank you so much for your wonderful show!

Mr. McGivern was an exhibition shooter in the first half of the 20th century, and, by all accounts, quite astounding. He was not, however, a particularly gifted writer. His style is pretty dry and wordy, but this is still a book worth reading if you want to pick up some tips and trick on fast draws and trick shooting.

Fast and Fancy Revolver Shooting: McGivern, Ed ...

McGivern is a stylized genera writer from the 1950’s. His stories read like a Humphry Bogart private eye flick from that era. From what I have read of this author, this stacks up along with the best of his work. Its crisp, the plot is solid and clear, the writing sings of arrogance and has a swagger.
