In 1935, Albert Einstein and his colleague Nathan Rosen showed that black holes can

Get Free So You Created A Wormhole The Time

theoretically be connected via 'wormholes' - shortcuts through space and time that could link up black holes light-years apart. To create a wormhole on Earth, we'd first need a black hole. This is problematic:

creating a black hole just a centimetre across would require crushing a mass roughly equal to that of the Earth down to this tiny size.
