If you have ever been deeply and profoundly listened to you will understand the beautiful gift of being accompanied. The art of accompanying is to become present to the heartbeat and significance of our own stories. To discover and to draw from the wisdom that reveals itself at the centre of experience. To find the spiritual threads, the meanings, the light and the purpose. Our hope is that you will join us in crafting this extraordinary and wonderful practice within yourself and in the world.

Distinguishes strategies of social change into the complementary parts of organizing and accompaniment, citing the examples of the 1960s United States and Archbishop Óscar Romero of El Salvador while tracing the author's own participation in five social movements.
